(a) Orthodoxy is my doxy; heterodoxy is another man's doxy. (Bishop Warburton)

(b) Those things which are not practical are not desirable. (Edmund Burke)

(c) There is majesty in simplicity which is far above quaintness of wit. (Pope)

(d) One may go wrong in many different ways, but right only in one. (Aristotle)

(e) He was a veray parfit gentil Knight (Chaucer)

(f) The first day a man is a guest, the second a burden, the third a pest. (Laboulaye)

(g) The King himself has followed her

When she has walk'd before. (Goldsmith)

(h) I hope I don't intrude. (J. Poole)

(i) The dove found rest for the sole of her foot. (Old Testament)

(j) If you get your head stuck in a bog, your legs may well go after it. (George Eliot)

(k) When first I attempted your pity to move,
You seem'd deaf to my sighs and my prayers;

Perhaps it was right to dissemble your love.

But why did you kick me downstairs? (J. Kemble)

(l) The King of France went up the hill

With twenty thousand men;

The King of France came down the hill,

And ne'er went up again. (R. Tarlton)

(m) Not a drum was heard, not a funeral note. (C. Wolfe)

SIMULTANEOUS EXHIBITION AND LECTURE
